

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A Container and Combination Packaging

The invention relates to an outer container for holding an inner container in particular 5 where the inner container has a sensitive product. The outer container comprises at least one of a moveable display board; retaining formations for retaining a hygroscopic element; or a stand for gripping the base of the inner container to retain it in an upright position. The invention also relates to a combination pack comprising the inner container retained in the outer container, particularly where the inner container holds a moisture 10 sensitive product such as an adhesive.
